How would you count back the change to a customer if their bill was $26.74 and they gave you a $100 bill? (List how many of each kind of bill and change, and explain how you would give these back to the customer)

If you had to talk to a customer who was becoming rude and unreasonable, you would handle it by:

- A. Let them know you would get a manager to help them.
- B. Tell them that we have policies in place that do not allow you to complete their request.
- C. Give them what they request, even if it is typically against policy, so you can move on to other things you need to do.

During really busy times, you think that:

- A. Customers don't care as much about the friendliness of the staff as they care about getting their order made quickly and correctly.
- B. As long as the customer receives a friendly greeting when they walk in, the rest of the crew should concentrate their efforts on speed and efficiency.
- C. Every staff member who has contact with the customer still needs to be friendly and outgoing, because it's worth the few extra seconds it takes to make the customer feel appreciated.
